Financial Aid Tip of the Month, July 2006

Private loans bridge gap between college costs, student aid

Many sources of financial aid are available to help college-bound students pay higher education expenses, including federal and state grants, scholarships and Federal Stafford and PLUS Loans. In addition, merit-based scholarships and need-based grants are often available at the local level.

All these programs may help ease the burden of paying for college; however, sometimes it is not enough to pay college costs. When that happens, parents and students may take advantage of private student loans, usually called alternative loans.

In addition to providing Federal Stafford and PLUS Loans in Kentucky, The Student Loan People<sup>sm</sup>, Kentucky's only nonprofit student loan provider, offers the Advantage Loan. This loan helps bridge the gap between the cost of college and the financial aid a student has received. Features include:

- Loans available from $1,000 to $25,000;
- Competitive interest rates and flexible terms;
- No origination fees;
- 24-hour online account access;
- Fast loan disbursements;
- Instant credit decisions online and by phone;
- Affordable monthly payments; and
- Principal deferment options available upon request for most students.

As with all loans, students need to do some research before committing to any loan. The amount that may be borrowed and the interest rate will largely depend on the borrower's credit rating, but differences do exist among lenders. Students should compare the loans offered by various lenders to ensure the best possible deal.
